MRS. CECILIA STOWE,
 Orator, Entro Nous Club.

176 Warren Avenue, Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
 For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a desolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Cecelia Stowe

Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.

Drying preparations simply develop dry rot; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

THE SKYLARK'S SONG

AN ASTONISHING FEAT FROM MANY POINTS OF VIEW.

Not Alone Is It a Wonder of Melody, Tone and Quality, but its Volume Is Astonishing and its Circumstance of Utterance a Physical Marvel.

For its music alone the song of the lark is almost the most melodious of any bird's. The tone and quality are admirable and the volume of sound astonishing. It can be heard clearly when the lark has mounted, as it sometimes does, beyond recognition by normal eyesight. The volume of sound is also most noticeable when a caged lark is heard, singing as it does far nearer to the hearer than the bird in the sky. But apart from the quality and music of the song the circumstances in which it is uttered render it an astonishing feat.

Every other considerable songster is quite aware that singing entails much physical effort. Consequently it takes care to secure a good platform to sing from. A thrush, or a blackbird or a robin nearly always selects a top shoot or projecting bough, preferably a dead one, on which it sits and sings, never moving its position, and without any objects round it to hinder the carry of its voice. The blackcap and nightingale and some of the warblers sit in a bush to sing, but the whitethroat and even the hedge sparrow choose the topmost twig. The whitethroat sometimes sings when descending, and some of the pipits and the wood lark do the same, the meadow pipit singing a feeble little song as it makes a short ascent and descent.

But to the strain on its lungs of long protracted song the lark adds the great muscular exertion of a steady upward flight, usually carried out not by scaling the air in gentle circles, as in the soaring of the larger birds, but by a vertical climb made by the incessant beating of its wings. Wordsworth's recognition of it is as the Type of the wise who soar, but never True to the kindred points of heaven and home.

It is often almost literally correct. After two or three spirals the bird goes up almost as if it were drawn heavenward by a cord, and then, closing its wings, descends like a falling stone to the very point from which it rose. The strain upon the muscles and the lungs would be great if during all this it were silent. But it chooses to add to the exertion of soaring that of pouring forth a continuous flood of sweet notes with no intermissions or breaks whatever.

A lark will soar and sing during a space of ten minutes consecutively. The rapidity with which the pectoral muscles are working during this period may be judged from the fact that the bird makes not less than from five to six beats of the wing per second. The beats are usually in sets of from three to five, the bird pausing for a moment as if to take a fresh start after the interval. When chased by the merlin falcon, skylarks make their finest exhibitions of flight, ascending into the air to heights which have been estimated as being not less than a thousand feet. Sometimes the bird uses the same means of ascent as when it is soaring and singing, rising vertically by incessant beats of the wing. In the language of the falconer, these are termed "mounting" larks, and their object is to outfly the hawk directly, shaking off its pursuit during the ascent. Others prefer to rise by flying in a spiral, which the falcon imitates.

Mr. E. B. Michell, in his volume on "The Art and Practice of Hawking," says: "The one bird may be circling from right to left and the other from left to right, and neither seems to guide the direction of its rings by any reference to those which the other is making. It is now a struggle to see which can get up fastest, and it is astonishing to see to what a height such flights will sometimes reach. As soon as a lark is 500 feet high it can drop, almost like a stone, into any cover within a radius of 200 yards from the spot just under it, allowance being made for the effect of the wind. But 500 feet is not high for a ringing flight; at least there is nothing unusual about it. A lark does not go out of sight until it is much above that height, and it is no extraordinary thing for it to do this."

The lark seldom sings late in the day. It can be tempted to rise in a burst of melody for one final ascent if the evening sun breaks through the clouds after rain, but as a rule it is silent long before the sun has descended into the western bed of cloud. We have Milton's authority that it is up and in song before dawn. But those who have are not easily found, though in the height of the pairing time it may very possibly be beforehand with aurora in greeting its mate. But as a rule the lark sings at sunrise, as the oriole and the thrush do. Darkness depresses it and keeps it mute, but a gleam of sun is the signal for it to ascend. Obviously rain would make it most difficult for it to soar, both by adding to the weight of its body from the moisture caught in the feathers and by wetting the webs of the pinions, so the lark only soars in the dry as a rule. It is one of the most sensitive and best of nature's weather gauges, for when the lark begins to sing it is almost certain that rain has ceased for some time, if not for the day. It is the cock lark which sings. William Cobbett noted that one was just soaring and beginning to sing when the hen flew up and evidently told him to stop, for she fetched him down again—"an instance," says Cobbett, "of that petticoat government which is universal."—London Standard.

MONUMENTS OF SHAME.

Mounds Erected to Men Who Were Liar White on Earth.

While other nations build monuments to the memory of men who have done great and noble deeds, the Dyaks heap up a pile of the branches of trees in memory of the man who has uttered a great lie, so that future generations may know of his wickedness and take warning from it.

The persons deceived start the tung bula by heaping up a large number of branches in some conspicuous spot by the side of the main road. Every passerby contributes to it and at the same time curses the man in memory of whom it is.

The Dyaks consider the adding to any tung bula they may pass a sacred duty, the omission of which will meet with supernatural punishment, and so, however pressed for time a Dyak may be, he stops to throw on the pile some branches or twigs.

This custom dates from very ancient times. It is interesting to notice that though the ethics of the Dyaks, even at the present day, do not agree in many points with the moral code of other and more advanced races, still from the earliest ages the Dyaks seem to have agreed in considering a lie a most disgraceful crime and a liar a man who deserves the curses not only of his own generation, but also of people yet unborn.

A few small branches, a few dry twigs and leaves—that is what the tung bula is at first. But day by day it increases in size. Every passerby adds something to it, and in a few years' time it becomes a large and imposing monument raised to the memory of one who was a liar.

It has often been remarked by Dyaks that any other punishment would, if a man had his choice, be preferred to having a tung bula put up in his memory. Other punishments are soon forgotten, but a tung bula remains as a testimony to a man's untruthfulness for succeeding generations to witness and as a standing disgrace to his children's children.

Believing, as the Dyaks do, in the efficacy of curses—a curse among them being a fearful offense—it is easy to understand how a Dyak would dread the accumulation of curses which would necessarily accompany the formation of a tung bula.—Straits Settlements Budget.

LOVE.

Love's a whetstone to the mind.—Anacreon.

Love stoops as fondly as he soars.—Wordsworth.

Love's best habit is in seeming trust.—Shakespeare.

They who love are but one step from heaven.—Lowell.

Love is not where most it is professed.—Spencer.

The deeper the love the more exacting it is.—George Sand.

There is but one kind of love, but there are a thousand different copies of it.—La Rochefoucauld.

Love is never lost. If it be not reciprocated, it will flow back and soften and purify the heart.—Irving.

Love looks through spectacles which make copper appear like gold, poverty like riches and foul tears like pearls.—Cervantes.

Natural Law.

The reputation of Mr. George Washington Jones for honesty had been slightly tarnished for some years, but his son Erastus was not supposed to know it.

"Cur's how cold contracts things," Mr. Jones remarked thoughtfully one evening. "Now dere's Max'milian Smith's wood pile for a case. 'Pears like dat wood pile is shrinking steady since dis las' col' spell set in."

"Seems as if our pile behind de stove was getting bigger, paw," hazarded Erastus, gazing at his parent for explanation of this phenomenon.

"Course it am, chile," said Mr. Jones calmly, "cause de room is hot an' heats expands things. 'Pears like yo' gewine to school don' put much wisdom into dat head of yours."

The following dog story is a favorite one in China:

"There was a Chinaman who had three dogs. When he came home one evening he found them asleep on his couch of teakwood and marble, whipped them and drove them forth.

"The next night when he came home the dogs were lying on the floor. But he placed his hand on the couch and found it warm from their bodies; therefore he gave them another whipping.

"The third night, returning earlier than usual, he found the dogs sitting before the couch, blowing on it to cool it."

Almost Impossible.

Jack—"Why wouldn't she marry you? She loves you to distraction. I know it, because she told me so. George—She insisted on my proving that I am not already married, because she says there is a great deal of bigness nowadays. Well, it is easy enough to prove that one is married, but how the dickens am I going to prove that I am not?"

Painless Spanking.

Father (cutting the whip smartly through the air)—See, Tommy, how I make the horse go faster without striking him at all. Tommy—"Papa, why don't you spank us children that way?"—Glasgow Times.

Sinny Steps.

An old man was passing our house one afternoon, taking exceedingly short steps. My little cousin watched him for several minutes and then said, "Mamma, doesn't he walk stumpy?"—Exchange.

When He Killed His First Man.

The killing of a brother man, even in battle, is a painful thing to remember. A soldier of the war thus vividly described his first experience:

"My first man I saw but twenty seconds, but I shall remember him forever. I was standing by my gun when a Confederate infantry soldier rushed up. I whipped out my revolver and took him through the breast. He tossed up his arms, gave me the strangest look in the world and fell forward upon his face. He had blue eyes, brown curling hair, a dark mustache and a handsome face. I thought the instant I fired that I should have loved that man if I had known him. I tell you war is terrible business."—Youth's Companion.

A Famous Quarry.

The entire mass of the Monte Sagro, 5,000 feet high, which dominates Carrara, is solid marble. One of the most famous quarries is in the valley of the Pioraccio. From this were extracted in Roman times the 1,700 tons of marble that served for the construction of Trajan's column at Rome. Here Donatello got the block which he carved into his St. George, and Michael Angelo into one for his Moses. From here also came the huge block mentioned in the memoirs of Benvenuto Cellini, which served for the colossal Neptune of Ammanati in the middle of the fountain of the Piazza della Signoria at Florence.

A Water Volcano.

One of the greatest natural curiosities in Central America is the Volcan de Agua or water volcano, which is situated in Guatemala about twenty-five miles southwest of the capital. Its apex is 14,500 feet above the level of the sea, and cultivated fields and forest trees extend almost to its summit. It occasionally vents forth torrents of pure cold water. On one occasion an "eruption" of this kind inundated the northern valley and destroyed a whole village situated on the side of the peak.

The Way He Put It.

At a school examination at Newcastle-under-Lyme, England, a boy was told to write an essay on the pleasures of reading. He wrote: "People read for many reasons. Sometimes they read for humor, and then they read such books as 'Don Quixote.' At other times they read for amusement, and then they read the Bible."

Look It Up.

"Yes, old boy," gave a reception out to his place on the hills and then turned the hose on the first detachment to arrive.

"He did! What did they say to that?" "They called it unconventional hospitality. You know, he's too rich to quarrel with."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Malady.

"Tess—She's a professional nurse, I believe. Jess—Not at all. What gave you that idea?" Tess—She remarked that she sat up last night with a sick man. Jess—Lovesick; that was all. It was that fiance of hers.—Philadelphia Press.

A Strong Word.

Dr. Blunt—"We must wake her, because I want to ask her if she has obeyed my orders. The Patient's Husband—"By—ah—doctor, it might be as well to—ah—put that question in a somewhat different form."

Much Bigger.

Y.—Do you think he ever lies about the fish he catches?—C.—No, I don't, but I think he lies about the fish he doesn't catch.—Stray Stories.

Being asked the name of the world's greatest composer, a smart university young man said "Chloroform."

"I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life."

That is the statement of a woman who had never been well until she was made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There are a great many other women in like case. They have always been sufferers from disease. They have never known the joy of perfect health.

For all such women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds out the prospect of perfect and permanent health, by the cure of the womanly diseases which weaken women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"It gives me pleasure to tell you know of the great benefit received from Dr. Pierce's medicine and the advice which you so kindly sent," writes Mrs. Bertie Parker of Bonham, Fannin Co., Texas. "I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and followed your advice regarding the 'Lyon Tablets,' and am cured. I had been treated by different doctors and spent one hundred dollars for treatment and medicine, but received very little relief. I have only spent seventeen dollars and fifty cents for your medicines, and I feel like a new woman. I have great pain all through my body. Pain in uterus was very severe. Had another spell, but it was very short all the time, had pain in stomach, pain in my thighs, pain in breast, also between my shoulders. Bowels constipated. I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life. Am happy to tell you that I was cured by your good advice and good medicines. The 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets' and 'Lyon Tablets.' These medicines cured me and will cure others also."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

ANIMALS—their habits, traits and characteristics—are a very amusing and interesting study. To all lovers of animals there is no life so enjoyable as a country one, surrounded as it is by every specimen of domestic creatures. Their affections are easily won through kindness and they prove most faithful and loyal friends. They all possess a grade of intelligence above mere instinct and know more than some grades of human beings. We believe that a large part of this intelligence is due to the fact that pets are talked to constantly and treated like beings of sense.

Most animals are social by nature and lovable by disposition. They do not talk in words but, nevertheless, they make their wants, desires and wishes known to their human companions and guardians. They have many calls denoting love, hate, disgust, disappointment and danger and those who are familiar with and love animals understand them just as well as though they spoke the choicest English—in fact, their speech is transferable into any language. They quickly learn the difference between blame and praise by the language—probably somewhat by the tone of the voice. It is not necessary to go at them with a club. Don't fail to talk to animals. They soon become accustomed to your voice and manner. Constant talking to, teaching and petting, develops the brain and has a softening influence over the disposition, making them more tractable and gentle. They acquire habits which seem almost human and constantly display an intelligence of no ordinary degree and give you the clearest manifestations of their love and confidence.

It is nonsense for people to say that animals have no reason. We very often see evidence of the fact that dumb animals are possessed of reasoning powers in a great degree and, like people, are possessed of strong individuality, which should be respected and accorded treatment to meet their sensibilities. It is wonderful to what state of perfection some animals are brought by gentle treatment and thorough training; but first their affections must be won. There is nothing so powerful as love. "For we know that the thing called love is stronger than reason—than life—some even claim than death." Do not give your animals any treatment you would not like to receive yourself if you were dependent upon others for your care. If there is anything that makes me indignant it is to see dumb brutes abused. Any person who possesses innate refinement will not be wantonly cruel to animals given us for our assistance and pleasure. What a monotonous world this would be if we never saw anything living but our own species. Many people go through life without thinking of any one's comfort but their own—never remembering that the poor beasts have as much right to live as they and that the air is free to all to breathe and enjoy.

Do not allow animals to be plagued. It makes them cross and unruly. It is pleasing to see the attention now being paid to the dumb animals, especially by the humane societies, and teachers of the growing generation are impressing on the minds of the children the blessedness of being kind and considerate to animals.

"Unless we see with bounty free
Our poor dependents fed,
How shall we dare
To use this prayer:
'Give us this day our daily bread!'"

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE

MRS. CARRIE P. HANNAFORD.

New Life and Strength Came to Her.

A Massachusetts woman, Mrs. CARRIE P. HANNAFORD, of No. 69 Hale St., Beverly, Mass., who is well-known socially there, being Treasurer of the Order of the EASTERN STAR, wrote her experience as follows:

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' is, without a doubt, the finest remedy on the market to-day, for female difficulties. I suffered for four years with pains every period, and I dreaded the approach of the time as I knew it meant two or three days' misery. Tried several different widely-advertised remedies, and found that they did me no good whatever. One day a friend called, who had been cured through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, so I purchased a package. I found that the real value of your medicine was greater even than my expectations, and the next month I had hardly any pains. The following month had none at all, and found that my general health was much better and new life and strength had come to me.

"These are the actual facts, and I feel that it is due you that I should write you. Sincerely yours,
Mrs. CARRIE P. HANNAFORD."

To Hon. R. V. Pierce, M. D.

Young women or matrons should not allow themselves to look sallow and wrinkled because of those pains and weaknesses which become chronic and are the result of colds, tight lacing, and imprudent care of the womanly system. Many a woman would look beautiful, have a healthy color and bright eyes if it were not for those drains on her strength and those weaknesses which come all too frequently and make her life miserable. There is a ready-to-use Prescription, used a great many years by Dr. R. V.

Pierce in his large practice as a Specialist in women's diseases, which is not like the many "patent medicines" on the market, as it contains neither alcohol nor any narcotic. It is purely vegetable.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It cures headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness and other consequences of womanly disease. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

$500 Reward
FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb which they can not cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure. Their financial responsibility is well known to every newspaper publisher and druggist in the United States, with most of whom they have done business for over a third of a century. From this fact it will readily be seen how utterly foolish it would be for them to make the above unprecedented and remarkable offer if they were not basing their offer on curative means having an unparalleled record. No other medicine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription could possibly "win out," as the record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments. This wonderful remedy, therefore, stands absolutely alone as the only one possessed of such remarkable curative properties as would warrant its makers in publishing such a marvelous offer as is above made in the utmost good faith.

"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mrs. H. S. Jones, of Forest, N. C. "When I began its use I was a physical wreck and had despaired of ever having good health again. Could not sit up all day. I noted a great improvement before the first bottle was all used. Was suffering with almost every pain that a woman is subject to: had inflammation of ovaries, painful and suppressed periods, and other symptoms of female disease. After taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' I felt like a new person. Can ride horseback and take all kinds of exercise and not feel tired."

CURLING TONGS AGAIN IN EVIDENCE.

Singular Accident to Mrs. Joseph Keechler

Mrs. Keechler, wife of Joseph Keechler manager of the Pacific Reclamation Company's ranch at McGill's station, met with an accident last Monday that came near destroying the sight of the left eye. Mrs. Keechler was using a pair of curling tongs when, by a mischance, her hand slipped and the end of the tongs, which were heated almost to a red heat, entered the left eye, causing intense pain and almost destroying the sight of that optic. Prompt treatment by Dr. Thompson, however, saved the eye and at latest accounts Mrs. Keechler was in a fair way of having the sight completely restored.

Distinguished Visitors.

Hon. Duncan E. McKinlay and H. L. Tripp of Santa Rosa were in town last Thursday looking over the political field of the Sonoma Valley. Mr. McKinlay has received the endorsement of the Republicans of Sonoma County for Congress and will, undoubtedly, receive the nomination at the Santa Cruz convention, which convenes on the 25th inst.

Mr. Tripp, who is one of Santa Rosa's most substantial business men, is the Republican nominee for the Assembly from this—the fourth—district.

Mr. McKinlay, after a thorough canvass of the Sonoma Valley, reports that there is, apparently, no factional strife in the party and that the Republican voters will present a solid phalanx to the opposing Democratic nominees when it comes to voting next November.

The Republican County Convention, which convened in Santa Rosa last Wednesday, was one of the most harmonious ever held in Sonoma county. The platform, as adopted, among other things endorses Hon. D. E. McKinlay for Congressman from the Second District in the following language:

"Believing that the Second Congressional District should be represented in the hall of the national legislature by a republican who, in times past, has proven his ability as an orator, a successful lawyer, a student of political economy and one who will be in full accord with the national administration, we most heartily recommend to the Republicans of the district a man who, by unswerving purpose, constant and unrelenting zeal, has risen from the more humble walks of life to a high position in the councils of this party and in the hearts of the people in this State—a son of old Sonoma—The Honorable Duncan E. McKinlay—and we pledge the delegates who shall this day be chosen to represent us in the State Convention to use all honorable means to secure his nomination."

The following nominations were made:

For Assemblyman Thirteenth District—Frank A. Cromwell of Petaluma.

Settle Your Difficulties On Top Your House.

The easiest and most effectual way to end the troubles you may be having at home on account of a defective roof is to cover it with Elaterite or Mastic roofing, which is the only made that does not wear out and you will find that it will never cost you another cent after it is once laid. It is the one roofing that meets all exigencies, resisting the heat of the summer and the cold of the winter; is not affected by climatic conditions, needs no painting, is fire proof and will not leak. Send for samples of Elaterite and Mastic and full information and you will learn something interesting. Sam Meyer, Healdsburg, distributor for Sonoma, Lake and Mendocino counties.
